Top story of 1980 was Prop. 2½

What was the story of the year in Wilmington? Was it Proposition 2½? Was it the town's 250th anniversary? Was it the defeat of federally funded housing?

More than any other event of 1980, Proposition 2½ will be strongly felt in 1981.

The particulars have not been worked out, but drastic cuts in the town budget are certain. For the town of Wilmington, a cut of 35 to 50 employees in general government is likely, with an equal if not greater number of cuts possible in the school department.

Some people are looking to the legislature or the courts to soften the blow of the new law, but this possibility does not seem likely. The overwhelming vote has convinced many legislators not to tamper with the provisions of Proposition 2½.

After the impact of the law has been felt for a year, the legislature might then be convinced to come to the rescue.

In the courts, there has been no indication that there will be any success with any of the suits that have been filed seeking to change the provisions of the law.

For Wilmington, the impact of the law will mean cuts in many service areas, in addition to the loss of personnel. Attempts at joking about which department will be closed have produced nervous reactions among department heads and employees.

The cuts in services will probably result in several programs becoming self-sufficient. Programs which were funded by the town might be carried on, with the participants footing the bill. Without town employees to run the programs, the use of volunteers would be essential. Wilmington's 250th anniversary celebration provides a good model of what can be done on a zero appropriation from the town. Staffed with volunteers and funded by participants, the celebration was one of the most successful activities the town has held in many years.

The cuts under Proposition 2½ do not present a rosy picture for employment prospects in a tight economy. The irony of unemployment under Proposition 2½ is that so often it is the government that provides unemployment relief. In this instance, the local government is in the position of being forced to create the unemployment.

The costs of unemployment taxes for the town will result in additional employees being cut. As a result of laying off 35 employees, the town will be assessed with unemployment taxes that will require the cutting of an additional 15 jobs.

How Proposition 2½ will effect the homeowner's tax bill is a good question. The basic idea of the law is that one year's tax levy cannot exceed 2.5 percent of the fair market value of the property.

This might seem simple enough, but there are several complicating factors. Wilmington presently carries an assessed value on the books that is about 54 percent of the market value of any piece of real estate. Short of having a total revaluation, the closest way to determine the value of the town's property is to set an equalized value.

As of January 1, 1980, the Massachusetts Department of Revenue (DOR) set the equalized value of Wilmington at $376 million, based on an assessed value of $157 million. In a December 4 memo, the DOR allowed a 13 percent inflation increase in the equalized valuation, raising the equalized value to $425 million.

Extending the 2.5 percent tax levy across the $425 equalized value results in a tax levy of $10.7 million. With an equalized value of $376 million, the levy would have been only $9.4 million.

The 13 percent increase, though, applies only to fiscal year 1983. Fiscal year 1982, though, will reflect a tax loss of some $3 million.

The current fiscal year, 1981, will also have an immediate shortfall of $200,000, due to the reduction of automobile excise taxes. Excise taxes will also result in an estimated tax loss of $700,000 in fiscal year 1983.

It is still too early to assess the impact of Proposition 2½, in real dollar figures. There is no way of knowing at this point, for instance, what a homeowner will save in taxes, what services will be cut, or which employees will be released.

The passage of Proposition 2½ was probably the top story of 1980, in terms of impact in Wilmington. That impact will extend and may well be the top story of 1981.

Tops in '80

The girls of the Wilmington Little League softball team will not easily forget 1980. After they won the state championship, they marched in the town's anniversary parade and received an ovation from one end of the parade to the other.

A year for fun

One story that lasted for nearly a year was Wilmington's celebration of its 250th anniversary. The actual date of the anniversary was Sept. 25, but the celebration began in January and was not wrapped up until November. One of the zanier events of the celebration was a hospital bed race, held on Church Street in early September. The team in the picture was entered by Analog Devices.

HUD proposes housing compromise

HUD is willing to consider a compromise, with reference to the proposed low and moderate income family housing, in Wilmington. So says Edward Pollack, the deputy area manager for the United States Department of Housing and Urban Development.

The compromise, as he delineates it, seems to be contingent on the completion of the Housing Assistance Plan (HAP) for the Silver Lake area, specifically in the Grove Avenue area. That application, which is a part of the current year finances (FY80) was made through the Wilmington Board of Selectmen.

In a sense this can be described as complicating the issue. The Wilmington Housing Authority made the application for (HUD) assistance for old age and low and moderate income housing because it seemed to be completely blocked in other approaches for those funds. The town, through the Town Manager and selectmen, made application for the Housing Assistance Plan at Silver Lake independently of the Housing Authority request. Now each request seems to be dependent on action for and by the other.

Pollack makes reference to the request by the selectmen as a Community Development Block Grant, made in Fiscal Year 1980. He then goes on to say "Had the Town not made these commitments for 105 units of public housing, Wilmington's housing performance might well have been questioned in connection with the FY 80 CDBG application."

Pollack notes that his office had not received applications for assisted housing in Wilmington, other than the two public housing applications made by the Wilmington Housing Authority.

This, he says, makes it "imperative that both projects be completed in order to meet the overall HAP goals."

"Regarding the location of the family project (near Wilmington Plaza, but off Glen Road, Ed.) and the proposal by the Board of Selectmen for scattered sites, we are willing to consider a compromise."

The compromise, he says, is that the Wilmington Housing Authority will continue the development of the proposed Old Age Housing, off Main Street, on the selected site proposed by Berkshire Builders. Berkshire Builders would then construct eight units of low and moderate income housing, six of which would be three bedroom homes, and two of which would be four bedroom homes.

In the event that Wilmington should submit a full application for the Small Cities Program, under HUD, the town will have to show specific progress in identifying sites for the eight family units, prior to any approval.

Should the CDBG funds be approved, Pollack says, their release will be conditioned on the demonstration by Wilmington that the 105 units will proceed to construction. If any of the proposed scattered sites are not acceptable, it is expected that the town and the Housing Authority will provide a total of 25 low and moderate income housing units, regardless of the number of approvable sites.

Wilmington is being asked to reply, as to whether or not the compromise is acceptable to the Housing Authority, and to the Board of Selectmen. The list of the proposed alternative sites should be submitted no later than January 10, 1981, Pollack said.

Wilmington's anniversary parade in September was one of the top events of 1980. Among the units to participate were the Pop Warner Cheerleaders, the elementary schools band and Cub Scout Pack 63.

Dog show coming to Shriners' Auditorium

A major AKC dog show with over 1,000 purebred dogs competing for conformation and obedience awards will be held on January 17, at the Aleppo Shrine Auditorium in Wilmington. The event is sponsored by the North Shore Kennel Club, one of the oldest AKC-affiliated dog clubs in the nation.

"Our first winter dog show last year was a great success with spectators and exhibitors alike," show chairman

Fred Lewis said. "We expect an even larger number of exhibitors this year. We are fortunate that the Shrine Hall is just off Route 93 and easy to reach from anywhere in New England."

Michael Cook president of the North Shore Kennel Club, was also enthusiastic. "Going to a major dog show is very inexpensive fun for animal lovers of all ages," he noted. "It's a day-long sporting event the whole family can enjoy. We expect over 100 varieties of purebred dogs to be represented in breed and obedience competitions."

Judging the competition on Saturday, January 17 will begin at 9 a.m., with the best-in-show competition expected to begin about 5 p.m. Parking at the Shrine Auditorium is free. Lunch and a catalog of events is available. Admission charge is $2.00 for adults and $1.00 for children under 12.

The Association sponsors Institutes throughout the year for Realtors and Realtor-Associates as part of its continuing education program. Upon completion of three 30 hour courses, Institute participants receive the nationally-recognized designation GRI (Graduate, Realtors Institute).

Of over 77,245 GRI's nationwide, there are over 1,393 in Massachusetts. The Institute includes such subjects as Construction, Real Estate Law, Finance, Appraising, Land Economics, Listing Techniques, Office Organization, and Ethical Practices.

Terry is associated with Lancelot Real Estate in Tewksbury.

Rolling Meadow Garden Club

The Rolling Meadow Garden Club held its annual potluck supper on December 2 at the home of Louise Carvalho. Each member prepared her favorite recipe for what has become a holiday tradition with the club. Handmade Christmas ornaments were exchanged after the supper.

The next meeting of the Rolling Meadow Garden Club will be January 6. A program on "The Art of Growing African Violets" will be presented by Rubin Innis of Lynnfield.

Upcoming programs for the club include a talk on the environment by Paul Keough of the Environmental Protection Agency in January, and the second annual auction of handmade items in March.

Anyone wishing to join the club should call 851-4539 for additional information.

Lions Club

Lions Clubs in the communities of Wilmington, Tewksbury and more than 50 other area towns are part of a District 33-N Lions-Care program in Massachusetts that will provide relief and rehabilitation assistance to the people of Cambodia during 1981.

Under the leadership of District Governor George Medeiros of Lexington and District Care Chairman Elmer Perry of Stoneham, the Lions have set a goal of $2,500.00 to be raised prior to June 1981.

These funds will be donated to Care to provide food, shelter, medical aid, tools, resettlement supplies, rice seed for planting, and other assistance to hundreds of thousands of Cambodians inside their own country and in refugee camps along both sides of the Cambodia-Thailand frontier.

Richard Calandrella, Care's director of development in New England, said that his organization has "already provided several million dollars worth of assistance inside Cambodia and in the border refugee camps" since October 1980, and that Care's programs will "continue as long as the need exists."

Calandrella praised the Lions of District 33-N for their "long and generous support of the Lions-Care program," and he noted that in recent years they have financed a child development program in Guatemala, school construction projects in Peru and Honduras, built school kitchens in Colombia and Panama, and supported a rural electrification project in Korea.

Who was Admiral Nakhimov?

The treasure of the Russian ship named Admiral Nakhimov was the subject of a story on Dec. 24th in the Town Crier. From four to 40 billion dollars in gold and platinum, said to be lying on the bottom of the Straits of Tsushima, and probably subject to a tremendous litigation between Japan and Soviet Russia.

Who was Admiral Nakhimov? Why should a ship be named after him? The Admiral was not only a great hero to the days of the Tsar, in Russia, he is also a great hero today, in the days of Soviet Russia.

In one sense at least, Nakhimov is to the present day Russian Navy as John Paul Jones to the United States Navy, or Horatio, Lord Nelson to the Royal Navy of Great Britain. Every recruit for the Russian Navy, when he enters the service, serves his first few weeks at an Admiral Nakhimov Station. Maybe there is more than one such station. The idea is to inculcate the recruit with a sense of chauvinistic patriotism, in the deeds of the Russian Navy.

The United States and Great Britain do not attempt so openly to inculcate a chauvinistic sense of patriotism. A recruit to the United States Navy simply is sent to a station of the Recruit Training Command. What happens in Great Britain today to a recruit to the Royal Navy is not certain, to the writer, but most certainly it is not to a Lord Nelson training station.

Nakhimov made his name during the Crimean War. To the average person that has something to do, perhaps vaguely, with the Charge of the Light Brigade. Possibly, too, the average person knows of Raglan overcoats, named after a British commanding officer (Lord Raglan) and of a place called Bakaklava, a word that sometimes appears in English nameplates and literature.

Ask the average person to tell more of that war and the reader will draw a blank look.

It was fought mainly in the area of the Black Sea, but there were some expeditions that went elsewhere, such as to the Baltic Sea and the Arctic Ocean, beyond Murmansk. The Royal Navy and the French Navy were assisting the Turkish Navy, and soldiers took part in the war, in the Crimea area of Russia.

It was the first war in which photography played an historical part. It was the first war in which iron clad steam vessels were used. There were other firsts, too. American Army officers were present, as observers, possibly the first time that American officers so participated in foreign wars. The Red Cross movement did not originate with the Crimean War, but the name of Florence Nightingale will live forever, because of her organization of nursing efforts, in Crimea.

The Russian Admiral, Nakhimov (1802-1855) earned his name because he was ready, when the war started, to immediately open hostilities. There was a port, Sinopoli, on the south shore of the Black Sea, in which there were Turkish Men-of-War.

Within hours of learning that a state of war existed, Rear Admiral Nakhimov was underway with his fleet. He sailed to Sinopoli, and the navy of Turkey was totally surprised.

In the resulting action every Turkish ship at Sinopoli was destroyed. That, it can be remarked, is in the same tradition as Paul Jones and Horatio Nelson.

But the Russian Navy did more. As the Turkish seamen were trying to swim ashore, after their ships had been sunk, the Russian ships bombarded them, with artillery. Very few, if any Turkish seamen, as a result, lived long enough to reach land. Five thousand were killed at Sinopoli.

That was the foundation of the reputation of Admiral Nakhimov - a total obliteration of the enemy. For that he was honored, in both the Imperial Navy of Russia of yesterday and in the Soviet Russian Navy of today.

There is no doubt that he was a belligerent commander, and in a military sense such a commander is good. He was killed in Crimea, before the war had ended, when he was surveying the Russian defenses against the armies of the Allies, Turkey, France and England.

He has been honored ever since by the Russian Navy.

Tewksbury senior topics

Christmas is over. I trust everyone had a happy holiday. I know we all enjoyed the Christmas dinner the Council on Aging sponsored. A good time was had by all, including Santa!

The next Golden Age Club meeting will be Tuesday, January 13, at 1:30 p.m. at the center. Bingo will be played after the meeting. Bus pickup will be as usual. Those who need transportation should call the center at 851-5949 and leave their name and address. It is the only way to know who needs to be picked up.

On the sick list this week are Elsie Medico, Stella O'Neil and Helen Mitchell. George Collins is home from the hospital. Anyone knowing of an ill member should call the center or Betty Storer (851-4173).

The February meeting will be a penny sale. Donations for prizes are still needed. A carton, clearly marked for the penny sale items has been placed in the arts and crafts room. If pickup is needed, please call Bob Ford (658-2209) between 4 and 6 p.m.

All members of the Golden Age Club wish to extend their wishes for a very Happy New Year to all seniors everywhere and this writer's personal wish for a happy and healthy New Year to all the members of the senior set.

Wilmington fell to 0-3 in the MVC and 0-5 overall last week as coach Jim Tildsley's young club was dumped by Lowell 85-43 in MVC action, and in the North Reading Christmas Tourney the Wildcats fell to North Reading 60-45 and Austin Prep 57-39.

Lowell 85-Wildcats 43

The Wildcats jumped out to a quick 9-2 lead and were down 12-14 after one quarter. Sophomore Bob DuCharme led the Cats with 12, followed by Andy Hauser with 10 and sophomore Ed Olshaw with seven points.

North Reading 60-Wildcats 45

Wilmington drew North Reading in the nightcap of their annual Christmas Tourney. The Hornets raced to a 16-4 first quarter lead and a 29-15 halftime bulge, as they held on for a 60-45 win.

Rich Shaw from North Reading led all scorers with 22 points. Bob Landrigan tossed in 15, Bob Perry fired in 12 points and Kevin MacDonald added 10 for Wilmington.

Austin Prep 57-Wildcats 39

Burns leads soccer champs

Team captain Dan Burns, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert A. Burns of Lockwood Road, Wilmington, played midfield on the Illinois Lake Forest College 1980 Midwest Conference championship soccer team. Dan was the top scorer for the season with nine goals and four assists.

After winning the Northern Division conference title with a perfect 5-0 record, Lake Forest defeated Southern Division Champion Grinnell 2-0 to take the conference title for the second consecutive year. Lake Forest went on to national competition as one of four teams selected for the NCAA Division III Midwest-Far West regional semifinals. The Foresters, seeded fourth, lost to top-seeded MacMurray College 2-1 in a triple overtime game played at Jacksonville, Illinois November 15. Coach Tony Fritz's Lake Forest team finished the season with a 10-2-1 record.

Coach Doug Anderson's crew improved to 2-0, downing Lowell 47-36 last Tuesday in their home opener. Megan Donnelly led Wilmington with 11 points, Paula Burns followed with 10 and co-captain Margaret Mooney chipped in with eight points and 12 rebounds.

The Wildcats led by two at the half 20-18 and by 32-28 at the third quarter mark. A 19-10 burst put the game away for Wilmington in the final period. Karen Rowe, Marianne Campbell, and Cally McCann combined for nine steals in the last quarter. The key for Wilmington was shooting 19-24 at the charity stripe.

Tewksbury's High School girls basketball squad dropped its first game of the season last week to a tough Ayer team, 43-41 with Jerrie Bernier (14 points) and Patty Murphy (12) leading the attack. Earlier in the week, coach Barry Sheehan's girls bounced Billerica by a huge margin. Tewksbury's overall record is now 3-1 overall, 3-0 in the MVC.

Lowell trips Pee Wee's, 6-2

Wilmington II played the visitors' role vs Lowell II Sunday (Dec. 21) at Janas Rink in Lowell. Back in familiar surroundings for the first time in six games and missing several key skaters, Wilmington spotted Lowell two early tallies before getting their attack together.

Midway through the first period, Rich Korowski spotted Tami MacDonald in front of the Lowell net, and a fine centering pass resulted in Wilmington's first goal by Tami, seconds later. Near the end of the first period, Chuck Stokes finished off a pass again from Korowski (two assists) and netted his ninth goal of the season, which tied the game at 2-2. Lowell broke the game open with three goals of the breakaway variety in the second period and a final tally in period number three which saw a continuation of penalties on Lowell skaters, including a misconduct and suspension for kicking.

Randy Jackson tended net and turned away 30 of 36 shots that came his way.

The defense was skated by Dave Roberts, Bill Gullage, Rich Korowski, Tom O'Reilly, Chris Sullivan and Derek Sencebaugh. Also, Mike Stuart, Peter Dirupo, Brian Walsh, Dave Michaud, Mark Thurlow and Troy Adams turned in good efforts

Fire on ice

After the sub-zero temperatures of last week, the temperature on Monday seemed almost tropical. Youngsters ventured onto the ice of Silver Lake on Monday night and built a bonfire.

Students hold party for seniors

On Thursday, December 18, the students and staff of Wilmington's North Intermediate School held a Christmas party for the senior citizens. The party was hosted by Mrs. Spear's Home Economics class, and Mrs. Feldman's Special Needs class.

Refreshments, which were an assortment of international desserts, were provided by Mr. Peabody's geography classes. An entertaining program of Christmas carols was presented by Miss Smyth's Spanish class, Mr. Dearborn's French class, and the Select Chorus under the directorship of Mr. Plassman. The seniors were presented Christmas cards, hand made by Mrs. Adam's Art Club as remembrances of the afternoon. Decorations and invitations were provided by the Student Council under the advisement of Mr. Birmingham.

Yellow ribbons for Christmas

A significant departure from the usual holiday symbols is a feature of the window decorations of the North Intermediate School. Art classes there added yellow ribbons to the traditional holly swags and wreaths. Ronnie Amidon, when asked if he knew why the ribbons were yellow replied, "Sure, I know. Those hostages have been in Iran more than 400 days. This will be their second Christmas as hostages. We want people to be thinking about them." Mrs. Linnehan, who has been subbing at the North, said, "It has made me think. I'm going to put a yellow ribbon on my wreath at home this year." Art teacher Joyce Adam explains the unusual holiday decor as a means of experiencing the art of communication, as a way of making a political or social statement.

The decorations were worked on by all the first semester art students, Mrs. Adam said. "However, I think Sean White probably cut out more yellow ribbons than anyone else." Everyone in the art department has obviously worked very hard to make their school attractively alive with the spirit of the season.

North Intermediate students collected food for needy

The second annual North Intermediate School Student Council's food drive was a huge success. This year the seventh and eighth grade students collected approximately 1,000 food items.

These items were combined to

Rotary collects for earthquake relief

The Rotary Club of Wilmington in its Dec. 24th meeting collected $213 in voluntary gifts, for relief of the earthquake victims of Italy. On motion of Rotarian John Brooks, the directors were then instructed to increase that sum to $250, in honor of the 250th anniversary of Wilmington. The money is being sent directly to the office of Rotary District 210, Naples, Italy. It is to be believed that many other Rotary clubs of District 793 (eastern Massachusetts) sent similar sums to District 210.

develop 60 food boxes to be distributed to the needy families in town.

The food was collected in a space of four days. During that time four students - George Jackson, Peter MacLellan, Anthony Guglielmo and Joe Danciewicz collected over 60 items each. Peter MacLellan, who spent part of his 14th birthday collecting, said, "It was hard work collecting the food and lugging it to school, but I feel it was worthwhile."

Frank Birmingham, the student council advisor, said, "The spirit of the season has really caught on with everyone. The kids have been involved not only in collecting the food, but they have also been helping the fire department with their Toys for Tots Program; they have conducted a party for the senior citizens; and they have been remembering our hostages with their school decorating."

The three top homerooms in the food drive feasted on a pizza party Thursday afternoon. The pizza was donated by Rocco's Restaurant.

Washak home on leave

Greg Washak of 46 West St., Wilmington has returned home after 14 months at sea aboard the aircraft carrier USS Constellation. The ship was on a West PAC tour that included Korea, Singapore, Hong Kong and the Philippines. The ship also spent four months off the coast of Iran.

Washak will be on leave until January 15, when he is due back at his home port, San Diego, Cal.

Washak is a 1979 graduate of Wilmington High School.

Wilmington police news

The Wilmington police log for the week ending December 29 shows a great deal of activity, even over the holiday. There were eight criminal arrests covering a wide range of offenses; nine protective custody detentions; and 17 traffic accidents, some of them weather related were investigated.

Two larcenies were reported; seven incidents of vandalism were recorded; one break-in was investigated along with an attempted break. Seven reports of suspicious activity were checked out; two sex related complaints were investigated; officers responded on six occasions to render medical assistance. Other reports include missing teenagers, threats, trespassing and sudden deaths which require police presence.

Tip of the week: With the new year rushing upon everyone, now is the time to make sure you are up to date with car insurance and registrations. With the staggered system of registrations, some car owners forget to register their cars, because they haven't received a new insurance bill, or vice-versa.

New Year's Eve the department will have a full complement of officers on the streets attempting to keep them safe, don't be next week's statistic, the traditional expression of "If you drink, don't drive" is still applicable today.

Arrests

Monday evening officers answering a disturbance call at 103 Aldrich Road arrested David Runge of that address charging him with assault by means of a dangerous weapon (knife) and disturbing the peace. Officers McKenna, Rooney and Vassallo made the arrest.

Officer Vassallo following the officer's investigation of a hit and run accident near Wilmington Center. Kline was charged with operating under the influence of alcohol and leaving the scene of a property damage accident. Friday in Woburn District Court Kline's case was continued to January 7.

Investigation of an accident on Main Street, near Rocco's Wednesday evening caused Officer Robert Vassallo to arrest John Monagle Jr., address unknown. Officer Vassallo charged Monagle with operating under the influence of alcohol, operating an unregistered, uninsured motor vehicle and attaching the wrong license plates. In court Friday the case was continued to January 5 for trial.

John J. Slettery of Glen Road was arrested by Officer Vassallo Saturday evening and charged with operating a motor vehicle after suspension of his license, and operating under the influence of alcohol.

Monday morning Inspectors Ballou and Cuoco arrested Donald McDonald of Main Street, Hookset, N.H. on a warrant charging him with rape, break and entry and larceny. He appeared in Woburn District Court before Judge Francis Cullin who held him on $5000 bail pending a court hearing.

Accidents

Icy streets were blamed for the Tuesday afternoon accident on a sharp curve near the intersection of West Street and Nickerson Avenue. Operators were Geraldine Cadawalader of Chestnut Hill Road, Chelmsford, and Louise Murphy of Fletcher Lane, Wilmington. According to Officer Duffy, both cars skidded on the ice.

Minor injuries were reported to police after a two car collision on Route 62 at the Route 93 ramp. John Tandyke of Hathaway Road, Wilmington and Barbara Corbin of Coburn Avenue, Tewksbury, the drivers were taken to the Regional Health Center for treatment of injuries Sunday morning.

Wilmington crime watch

by William E. Gable

As the first of a new year approaches it is time for us to think of our New Year's Resolutions. Along with the usual resolutions let's try to make some new ones concerning crime prevention. Here are some for thought:

- A resolve to help the police by keeping a watchful eye on our neighbors' property when possible.

- A resolve to better secure our own property. Take time to replace those old locks and update the security hardware in our homes and business.

- A resolve to report any and all suspicious activities to the police department.

- A resolve to take part in the crime prevention programs that are sponsored in the town.

- A special resolve to help the police department help you.

The Crime Prevention Unit of the Wilmington Police Department wishes you and yours a safe, prosperous and healthy New Year.

Compass or computer?

Which is a Scout's best friend?

"There is virtually nothing you will eat, touch, wear or use today that has not, in some way, been affected by a computer." Twenty-three scouts from Troops 255 of Waltham, 302 of Arlington, 519 of Woburn, and 708 of Wakefield, listened to this message, delivered at the Computer Merit Badge Clinic held at Nixdorf Computer Corporation in Burlington on Saturday, November 15. The point was driven home in an informative and entertaining six hours of lectures, movies and discussions — culminating in some hands-on experience with a Nixdorf computer.

"Totally excellent," is the way one scout summed up the day's event, which began with opening remarks by DPMA, (Data Processing Management Association) Route 128 Chapter President, Ed Bergh. Bergh stressed the importance of computers in our world today and the need for people to learn more about these machines as the day approaches when home terminals will be as common as t.v. sets.

It was, in fact, the recognition of the increasing role computers are playing in our society, which led DPMA to assist in the development of the Computer Merit Badge in 1968. Since then, more than 10,000 scouts have earned this badge.

Two DPMA representatives and six Nixdorf employees combined their background knowledge to provide instruction covering many areas of the computer industry.

The day got underway with a discussion on the history of computers, computer hardware and computer careers, by Ken Sweitzer, manager of operations planning and control of Nixdorf's manufacturing facility in North Reading, Mass. He began with the development of the first true calculating machine, the abacus.

Ken traced the origins of today's powerful computer through the invention of the slide rule, and the first huge programmable computer. He related, "It would fill five rooms the size of this one."

Ken produced a circuit board which he passed around for the boys to examine, explaining how the development of transistors capable of replacing vacuum tubes had enabled designers to create smaller and smaller systems like the mini-computers of today.

Following a short break, Paul George, systems programmer at Nixdorf, gave an introduction to data processing. He brought this subject live for the scouts by explaining some of the interesting and diverse ways computers are used by various industries.

Paul explained, "Because most police cruisers are now equipped with terminals connected by a network to large computers, before leaving the squad car, an officer can determine the owner of a particular car by simply keying in the license plate number."

"He can then check that information against the driver's license to see if he or she is also the owner of the car."

"Then, if there is any question about the driver, the officer can contact a computer at the FBI by network, to determine if the operator has a record."

After lunch, Paul gave an introduction to programming and illustrated his discussion by having the scouts devise two flowcharts diagramming a process of decisions. The first one, the act of getting up in the morning, showed the boys how people are "programmed," most people wanting to smash the alarm and go back to sleep.

He brought the boys through the process of waking up and deciding to return to dreamland several times before eating breakfast, brushing their teeth and getting dressed.

The scouts did the second flowchart themselves as an exercise. This one diagrammed the process of trying to get a soda from a machine that eats money.

"First you insert the money," said Paul. "Then you push the button. Does anything come out? No. Push 'coin return.' Does anything come out? No. Kick the machine!"

The climax of the clinic occurred during the latter part of the afternoon, when the boys keyed in their passwords on the Nixdorf system. Jim Maddox, group supervisor for General Business Systems software support, and Truda Wilson, associate national support specialist for the boys.

By keying their names and birth dates into the terminal, each scout received his own personal Bio-Rhythm chart.

In addition, each terminal was programmed to play a number of games,

Ed Bergh (second from left) was one of the two DPMA representatives who assisted Nixdorf employees in teaching the scouts about the many facets of the computer industry.

such as "Chase," "Star Trek," "Star Wars," "Othello" and "Black Jack."

The scouts were very inquisitive, asking many questions about how the system worked, as very few had had any instruction in computer science before. But the biggest question of the day was whether or not Nixdorf carried "Space Invaders," a popular computerized pinball game.

Designed to introduce the scouts to the area of data processing, to familiarize them with the operation of the various components of a computer system, and to impart an awareness of career possibilities in the computer industry, the subjects covered at the clinic paralleled the eight requirements as set out in the Computers Merit Badge book.

At the end of the six-hour day, Ed Bergh and Helen O'Malley, treasurer of the Route 128 Chapter of DPMA, handed out certificates to each scout, stating that they had participated in the Clinic.

The success of the Clinic can be measured by the boys' responses on a questionnaire filled out at the end of day. Virtually every scout expressed an interest in learning more about computers, while most indicated that they really intended to complete the requirements for this badge. With the exception of one, all felt that they might like to pursue careers in some aspect of the computer industry.

Suggestions for improvements for future clinics ranged from "More time with the computers!" to "None, it was great!" Even better was the suggestion from eight of the scouts that they wished the clinic could have gone on longer.

Unwrapping my Christmas presents

FM TALK: A few thoughts that crossed my mind while unwrapping presents under the tree this Christmas morning...It is interesting to note the way an establishment changes its view of its art in what amounts to a very few years. An example of art that has undergone a metamorphosis in value and is suddenly very much in demand is the controversial German Expressionism exhibit currently being shown at the Guggenheim Museum in New York City. Many of the paintings and other forms of art on exhibit there were exploited by Hitler in the late Thirties as "degenerate art" and were subsequently sold overseas. Today, according to the Guggenheim, German art museums are willing to spend enormous sums of money to get them back. The Guggenheim exhibit consists of over three hundred paintings, watercolors, drawings, and woodcuts which trace the period between 1905 and 1920 when German artists attempted to create new styles of communicating their ideas. Among the artists on display are Nolde, Heckel, Kirchner, Kandinsky, Jawlensky, and Rohlf. While on the subject of art, at the Metropolitan Museum in New York City, there is a new exhibit called New Glass, which was organized by the Corning Glass Museum, in Corning, New York, and focuses on works in glass by serious artists from all over the world. If you're over twenty-five, you probably remember cute little English rock singer Marianne Faithfull (she was Rolling Stone Mick Jagger's girl friend for a while). Well, after an absence from the music scene of about twelve years, she's back again, with a punk rock album this time. Since I'm not permitted to print any of the lyrics from her new LP, it is suffice to say that Marianne isn't so cute and little anymore, at least as far as her music is concerned. Planning a wedding or anniversary party or cocktail party soon? You'll be interested to know that the latest "gimmick" being offered by some catering firms is "catered-affair-cancellation insurance," which is just what the father of the bride needs when his daughter's fiancé breaks up with her just before the wedding, or when a sudden blizzard hits the day of your fiftieth wedding anniversary.

I wonder if Jack Hynes, of WCVB-TV, got any gift certificates from Louis or Margo's of Boston for Christmas? Only his tax man will know, I guess...Three very distressing thoughts over this Christmas: the hostages have now spent two Christmases in Iran; the murder rate in Los Angeles approached one thousand for this year when thirty-two people were murdered over a single weekend recently; and all the people who die over the Christmas season in fires that result from faulty wiring connected to their Christmas trees.

Let's end this year on a positive note:

From behind the walls of the Present I can hear the hymns of humanity. I hear the sounds of the bells announcing the beginning of the prayer in the temple of Beauty, bells molded in the metal of emotion and poised above the holy altar — the human heart. From behind the Future I see multitudes worshipping on the bosom of Nature, their face turned toward the East and awaiting the inundation of the morning of Truth. — Khalil Gibran

Have a very healthy, happy, and safe New Year and I'll see you in 1981!

Eye health tip

An EYE HEALTH MONTH TIP "for your sight's sake": first and most important treatment for chemicals in the eye is copious irrigation of the eye with water. Almost any source is fine. Be sure to immediately wash the eye out with large quantities of water.

Exercise before to shovel snow later

The time will soon be here when many of us will do battle with the great piles of snow that bid us Seasons' Greetings. The Massachusetts Department of Public Health has some tips for safe and successful snow removal, whether the instrument is the trusty snow shovel or the snow blower.

A word of caution: Anyone planning to do serious snow shoveling this winter should be exercising now, at least two or three times a week. Regular exercise is especially important since many people are "house bound" during the cold months and get even less exercise than normal.

Proper dress is also important. Mittens are warmer than gloves and several light layers of clothes insulate the body from the cold more effectively than one heavy layer. Besides protecting the ears, a hat will prevent heat loss through the head. Finally, the glare from the sun on snow can be intense, and sunglasses are recommended to avoid eye strain.

As with any strenuous physical activity, the greatest danger is physical injury. People who are under or over-weight, and those with spinal deformities; arthritis; previous joint injuries; a medical condition such as heart disease, hypertension or lung disease; and persons over 50 years old should check with a doctor before the season begins.

Back muscle strain is by far the most common injury associated with snow shoveling. Other hazards include hernia, which is a tearing of the body muscle lining; sprains and fractures due to falls; and even heart attack. A proper shoveling technique helps minimize these injuries.

Use a snow shovel that is in good condition, and clear snow by pushing rather than lifting. If you must lift, keep the back straight and knees bent, and let the legs do the work. Keep the hands widely separated for good leverage.

Wait at least one hour after eating before beginning to shovel. Do not smoke or drink while working; nicotine constricts the blood vessels, and alcohol dulls the senses and may lead to overwork. Know your limits and rest often. Stop immediately if you begin to feel pain in your muscles, since pain indicates that the muscle has already been stretched beyond its limit.

Snow blowers save time and energy, but they too require certain safety precautions.

Before starting a snowblower clear away all loose objects, stones, sticks or gravel. The engine of a pull-cord type of blower should never be started by anyone whose physical stamina is questionable; heart attacks can result.

Do not attempt to unclog the chute while the motor is running. Do not wear loose clothing while operating a blower. Do not use a snow blower on steep hills.

After snow has been removed, spread sand or salt on icy spots to help prevent falls.

Pony Express

Short - Lived

The Pony Express, carrying the mail between St. Joseph, Mo., and Sacramento, Calif., lasted only 18½ months and cost its backers some $200,000. The express went out of business late in 1861 within a week of completion of the first transcontinental telegraph.

Visiting Nurse Assoc. sets up Hospice service

Terminally ill residents will soon be offered care and comfort through a new service, VNA Community Hospice, according to an announcement by Jacquelyn S. Deegan, MSN, executive director of the Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex-East. According to Deegan, the service is expected to be operational by January 1, 1981. A $12,000 grant from United Way has been made available for the initial organization. Additional sources of funding are being sought.

To be eligible for acceptance into the VNA Community Hospice program a patient must have been diagnosed to be in his/her final six months.

The hospice program is designed for the patient who wants the option of spending this precious time at home with their families. The care and comfort is accomplished by providing the essential medical and emotional support. Focus, she states, is in helping the patient live as fully as possible; and the plan is to treat and counsel both patient and family as well.

Hospice is a philosophy of care, not a place. The term "hospice" goes back to Medieval times when travelers on difficult journeys were given shelter and comfort, often in monasteries. The first modern adaptation was St. Christopher's in England in 1967; similar programs have sprung up in the U.S. in the last ten years.

Working in close association with the patient's physician, the proposed VNA hospice team may well include the Visiting Nurse coordinator, the health care nurse, social worker, physical therapist, occupational therapist, home health aide, homemaker — according to what home health care professionals are required in each case. Essential roles will also be taken by clergymen for spiritual support and specially trained volunteers who will work with the family group during the illness and bereavement. This team may be reached 24 hours a day, 7 days a week — thus relieving the patient's dread of being alone and in pain.

The Visiting Nurse Association of Middlesex-East which serves the home health care needs of Woburn, Wakefield, Reading, North Reading, Wilmington and Stoneham, has joined with the Melrose and Medford visiting nurse associations in the formation of the VNA Community Hospice program. Thus the service will be available in Middlesex-East's six town area plus Medford and Melrose, eight neighboring communities representing a population of close to 300,000.

It has been estimated that 25 percent of the 1978 deaths in the eight towns were attributed to cancer. While cancer affects primarily middle-aged and elders, it is also the leading cause of death among children age 3 to 14.

Deegan expects that referrals for the new VNA Community Hospice will come from hospitals and physicians, social service or health care agencies. They will also come from patients and their families.

For further information on the VNA Community Hospice, call Jacquelyn S. Deegan, executive director of the VNA of Middlesex-East at 438-3770.

Myths about alcohol

MYTH: ALCOHOL IS NOT A DRUG. FACT: Alcohol is a drug, and America's number one drug problem is alcohol abuse and alcoholism...affecting more than 9 million.

MYTH: THERE IS NO DIFFERENCE IN DRINKING PROBLEMS ACROSS COUNTRIES. FACT: Some cultures have fewer problems than Americans do with alcohol. They present responsible attitudes to children at an early age, and seldom use alcohol as a prime focus for activity, viewing it mainly as an accompaniment to food.

MYTH: VERY FEW WOMEN BECOME ALCOHOLICS. FACT: In the 1950's there were about six male alcoholics identified for each woman alcoholic. The ratio is now more like three men for each woman, and climbing toward equality.

MYTH: MIXING DRINKS CUSES HANGOVERS. FACT: The major cause of hangovers is drinking too much. Everyone has a favorite cure, but they don't work. The best way to avoid one is responsible drinking, or choosing not to drink at all.

MYTH: A FEW DRINKS HELPS A PERSON UNWIND AND RELAX. FACT: Occasionally, this may be true, but people who use alcohol regularly to reduce tension become dependent on it as an escape or as a support...and drinking becomes a problem to them, whether they know it or not.

MYTH: BEER AND WINE ARE NOT AS POTENT AS HARD LIQUOR. FACT: One can of beer or an average-sized glass of wine are about equal to a "highball." It's the amount of pure alcohol consumed that's important. Alcohol is alcohol, no matter what form it comes in.

MYTH: PEOPLE ARE FRIENDLIER WHEN THEY'RE DRINKING. FACT: Maybe sometimes (they may not remember the next day). But they're also more hostile, more dangerous, more criminal, more homicidal, and more suicidal. Half of all murders and one third of all suicides are alcohol-related.

PUBLIC INFORMATION AND EDUCATION: The Prevention Center at North Shore Council on Alcoholism, 183 Newbury Street, Danvers, a nonprofit public service agency, believes that if people learn the truth about alcohol, the way it affects people and communities, they may be motivated to change their behavior and reduce the incidence of alcohol abuse and alcoholism.

ALCOHOL — TAKING IT OR LEAVING IT

How Much To Take

(Based on average weight 150 lb. individual)

- Know "When To Say When".
- That means 3 one-ounce shots of whiskey or 4 eight-ounce beers or one-half bottle of table wine.

The alcohol content is the same in each.

How To Take It

- Sip it slowly, 1 hour between drinks.
- With Food • With Ice or Water — Carbonated Mixers rush alcohol into the bloodstream.

When To Take It

- Only when you really want it • Sharing a meal or human interchanges.
- Relaxing or socializing.

When Not To Take It

- Never "when" Driving • "When" engaged in any complex mental or physical activity.
- "When" anxious or under stress • To replace sleep • To offset boredom.

How To Leave It

- Ask for a NON-Alcoholic Beverage.
- Bring or pour your own NON-alcoholic beverage.
- Wait awhile.

Etiquette for the home party

PLANNING A PARTY? Encourage conversation, activities, and fun as the center of attention at the party. Food and drinks will enhance the activities you have planned. Provide soft drink alternatives. More and more guests like to know they can get a drink of juice, unspiced punch, sodas or coffee and tea. Provide food along with drinks. Especially those foods high in protein such as cheese, eggs, fish and meat, and those light in salt.

IN GOOD SPIRITS. When serving drinks, give them all a festive look. Fresh lime in soda is becoming a very popular request. Alternate beverages can be served straight up or on the rocks with a fresh garnish. Help your guests count and pace their drinks. Pour accurate shots. "Doubling-up" is not generous, it's pushy. Respect your guests when they say they've had enough. Set a limit for guests so they won't drink too much. Each person needs about an hour and a half to process one drink, whether it be a shot of liquor, a glass of wine, or a can of beer. Let your guests know what you are serving. Some guests may be on special diets, or allergic, or pregnant and need to know how much salt, sugar or alcohol is used. Tell them especially if the alcohol has not been cooked out and is disguised in a punch, dip, parfait or dessert topping.

THE PARTY'S OVER: As the host and hostess, you are responsible for your guests. Give them one last song, dance or friendly conversation for the road. Give them the time they need to sober up. FRIENDS DON'T LET FRIENDS DRIVE DRUNK. Arrange transportation or overnight accommodations for anyone who would otherwise have to drive under the influence.

To drive or not to drive?

If you're tempted to get into your car and drive after you have been drinking, don't do it, advises the Mass. Division of the American Automobile Association.

Here are some of the unpleasant things that may happen if you are caught and convicted of driving under the influence of alcohol:

Your fine will be $35. to $1,000., or you may be put in prison for two weeks to two years, or both.

Your license will be suspended for one year. (The court may instead place you on probation for a year; or you may volunteer to attend an alcohol education or rehabilitation program as a condition of probation.)

Your auto insurance surcharge will be $200., plus loss of any merit rating credits for three years.

You'll get a criminal record.

In Wakefield Retired Men's Club has Christmas Party

The Retired Men's Club of Wakefield held its annual Christmas Party on December 10th at the First Parish Congregational Church of Wakefield. Ed Krusiak played the organ during the hospitality hour.

President George Flewelling of Lynnfield announced that there were 294 members attending this meeting, an indication of growing interest in the Men's Club.

Two visitors were introduced, Melvin Lawrence of Peabody, and John Melanson of Melrose. Members receiving their certificates of membership were: Franklin DeCacca and William McCabe of Wakefield and Merton Parsons of Melrose.

John Griffin, Chairman of the Sick and Visiting Committee, reported on members incapacitated at this time. Loriston Stockwell had his usual interesting and humorous stories.

Ray Smart of the Camera Club reminded the group that December 16th was Ladies Day featuring slides of the 1980 visit of the Tall Ships last June.

Dick Taylor, 1st Vice President reported that the bowling group will be in competition with the Needham Retired Men soon.

Bob Sproul reported on trips. The trip to Edaville had an overflow of registrations filling four bus loads. Two bus loads went the first week on December 2 and another two bus loads on December 9th. The 250,000 Christmas lights witnessed on the five mile railroad trip with all the Christmas exhibits were thoroughly enjoyed as well as a visit to their Museum, followed by dinner in Plymouth. These were very successful trips. On December 30th an orientation meeting was held for those members registered for the June 1981 trip to Nova Scotia. This will be a seven day trip including Cape Breton Island and Prince Edward Island.

Bob Sproul also led the members in singing Christmas carols, including "Jingle Bells, It Came Upon the Midnight Clear, O Little Town of Bethlehem Joy to the World and Silent Night." Lee Chisholm accompanied the singing on the piano.

There were eleven members present who had birthdays since the last meeting and they were greeted with the usual "Happy Birthday" song.

The rest of the meeting was most relaxing with President George Flewelling, dressed in the full regalia of Santa Claus, presenting gifts (by numbers) to all the 294 members brought in, anonymous packages for Santa Claus. The meeting ended in the Christmas Spirit, "A Merry Christmas to All."

As usual, Mass. leads tops in car thefts

"Massachusetts has had the highest car theft rate in the country for more than a generation. Plainly, there is a need for far more aggressive fraud detection measures than we possess today."

That was the testimony given recently in support of "Emergency Regulation 211" by Ann N. Kramer before a hearing in the Massachusetts Division of Insurance. Kramer is Executive Director of the Coalition for Auto Insurance Reform (CAIR).

"Emergency Regulation 211", which was first issued on October 9, 1980, deals with establishing new reporting procedures between Massachusetts auto insurance companies and the National Auto Theft Bureau, in an effort to "prevent the payment of fraudulent theft claims by an insurer arising from the theft or misappropriation of a motor vehicle." The regulation is in effect, at the present time, but is due to expire on January 8, 1981.

Kramer told the hearing, "We support the principle of the regulation. Administered properly," she said, "it has the potential for lowering the outflow of loss dollars due to car theft and fraud, hopefully producing a reduction in the cost of auto insurance for the consumer."

CAIR is a grass roots public information coalition comprised of consumers, insurance professionals, law enforcement and fire personnel. Its goal is to inform the people of Massachusetts about the crisis developing within the Massachusetts auto insurance system. "By informing the citizenry," Kramer said, "we hope to create a climate for change in the current system."

Kramer concluded, "We support your efforts here today with regard to Regulation 211. We pledge support, as well, to the efforts of the Commonwealth's government to correct our flawed auto insurance system in the months immediately ahead."

STRAIGHT TALK on Teeth

A PUBLIC SERVICE OF THE
AMERICAN ASSOCIATION OF ORTHODONTISTS

STRETCHING YOUR DENTAL DOLLARS

In these days of double digit inflation, it's good news that there is a way for parents to get more for the dollars invested in their children's dental health.

Actually, the secret to stretching those dental dollars is no secret at all. It simply involves following the advice your dentist has been giving for years.

First, your child should have a first visit to the family dentist at age three. Usually all the primary teeth have come in by this time. They can be checked and cleaned without discomfort to the child. During this visit the child and parents can be given tooth brushing instructions and advice on the proper diet to maintain maximum dental health.

Second, parents should make sure the child follows the family dentist's instructions about thorough brushing and flossing. They also should be sure the child gets fluoride through drinking water or toothpaste, and encourage limitation of foods with high sugar content.

These important preventive measures will help minimize tooth decay and, of course, cost of dental treatment.

Third, parents should have the child's teeth and mouth examined by an orthodontist at age seven. If your orthodontist detects a problem such as crooked, crowded or protruding teeth, he can determine the time in the child's growth when treatment will be most effective, take the least time and be most economical.

In some instances relatively minor orthodontic treatment on the teeth of a young child may result in savings of hundreds of dollars compared to the cost of treatment during teen or adult years when problems may have become greater. In other cases, early treatment may be performed to reduce severity of a problem as part of two-stage therapy. In such cases, better results rather than dollar savings is the goal.

Nobody can put a dollar value on healthy, functional teeth, but parents and children, in cooperation with the family dentist and orthodontist, can help control the need and cost for extensive dental treatment.

To learn more about the importance of an early orthodontic examination for your child, you are invited to write to The American Association of Orthodontists, 460 North Lindbergh Blvd., St. Louis, MO 63141 asking for the free booklet, "Age 3 - Age 7."

"Original" Salad Dressing Quickly Made in Blender

A creamy seasoned dressing does a lot to pep up salad greens and raw or cooked vegetables. A blending of egg yolks, lemon juice, Parmesan cheese, garlic and oil, it gets its extra savoriness from a generous helping of original Worcestershire. See if your guests can guess what this "original" ingredient is.

CREAMY OCTAVIUS DRESSING

- 2 egg yolks
- 3 tablespoons fresh lemon juice
- 2 tablespoons original Worcestershire sauce
- 3 tablespoons grated Parmesan cheese
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1 large garlic clove, crushed
- 1 cup salad oil

Place in blender container egg yolks, lemon juice, Worcestershire sauce, cheese, salt and garlic. Cover and blend at high speed for 5 seconds. With motor on, slowly add oil, pouring in a continuous stream, just until all oil is combined. Serve over salad greens, sliced vegetables, etc. YIELD: 1 1/2 cups.

INTS FOR OMEOWNERS

Answers to homeowners' questions are given by J.B. Featherston, MAI, President of the American Institute of Real Estate Appraisers, the nation's oldest appraisal organization, and the only one affiliated with the National Association of Realtors.

Question: How will the specter of gas shortages and increased costs affect the price of homes?

Answer: Housing is in such short supply that there is no immediate danger that suburban homes will lose their value. Suburban homeowners will fight back with car pooling, public transportation and other forms of conservation.

Higher prices of inner city homes are, however, being fueled by the gas shortage. Proximity of employment and public transportation, added to other economic and cultural advantages, are revitalizing residential living in major cities.

Land near mass transit stations is escalating in value - even where the system is a long way from completion.

Match - a - Mom

BY WILLIAM PACINO

Predictions are for an off-beat year. Thus we treat this week with that type of event. Happy New Year!

Match-a-Mom will kick off the New Year with a vigorous membership drive in the Greater Boston area. Designed by mothers for mothers, Match-a-Mom provides a much-needed service for parents of young children. By bringing adults and children together through such activities as play groups and baby-sitting trade-offs, Match-a-Mom creates a support network for people who are new to the community, house-bound, or simply eager to make friends.

In January, there will be an active search for both members and volunteers, as this is a non-profit organization. Match-a-Mom is also in special need of area representatives, who in turn will and is still at large in Northern England. Rumbelow, on active duty with London's Metropolitan Police Force, is considered the world's foremost authority on Jack the Ripper and related criminals.

THEATER: Edward J. Moore's "The Sea Horse", moving onto the stage of the Merrimack Regional Theatre Jan. 9 through Feb. 1, is a two-character love story as tender as any ever written. "The Sea Horse", however, is set in a waterfront tavern on the Pacific Coast and the two lovers are Gertrude Blum, the nearly obese proprietress of the tavern that gives the play its title, and Harry Bales, an unexceptional sailor and handyman. These two characters are the romantic focus of Moore's play, a love tale that is funny and sad; in many ways a story about the way real people fall in love - with their defenses up.

"The Sea Horse" will be on stage at the Merrimack Regional Theatre, Lowell's professional resident theatre, Jan. 9 through Feb. 1. Performances are Tuesday through Saturday at 8 PM, with matinees Saturday at 2 PM and Sunday at 4 PM. For ticket information, phone the Box Office at 454-3926. MRT is located on Broadway and Wilder Sts. in Lowell.

promote the involvement of more and more communities.

Despite its name, Match-a-Mom encourages fathers, grandparents, foster parents and other guardians to take advantage of this unique opportunity for friendship and growth.

For more information, call 289-8156 or send a self-addressed, stamped envelope to Match-a-Mom, 21 Francis St. Revere 02151.

It's a cold winter's day, the wind is bitter, and your hands and feet feel like ice. You figure the best remedy would be a nice swig of Scotch. Right?

Wrong, says cold-weather expert Bradford Washburn, Chairman of the Corporation at Boston's Museum of Science. In fact, alcohol can actually lower your body temperature, though at the start it speeds up circulation. Another big non-no is smoking, which drastically reduces the flow of blood to your extremities.

These and other tips on keeping warm this winter can be found in "Frostbite: What it is - How to treat it - Emergency treatment", a treatise by Washburn, an experienced mountaineer and explorer. Washburn's article includes a medical discussion of the causes and effects of frostbite, as well as first-aid instructions that are invaluable to the climber, camper, skier or outdoor worker.

While touring the Science Museum this school vacation week, drop into the Publications Department and pick up this invaluable guide.

MOVIES: "The Yorkshire Ripper", a contemporary mystery-thriller will be brought to the screen by MGM by executive producer Larry Wilcox and Wilcox Productions.

Set in present day London and based on a story idea by Donald Rumbelow, "Ripper" was inspired by the modern-day murderer in Yorkshire, England who recently claimed his 13th victim.

Coming Attractions

By William Pacino

The People Theatre announces a new series of theatre courses. 1) Intermediate Acting: Scenes, monologues, sound, movement, visuals, costume pieces and props will be used to expand and intensify work on character building and technique. 2) Speak Easy: primarily designed for actors, but open to all people who use their voices professionally - lawyers, teachers, helping professions, politicians - this course will concentrate on enhancing your natural voice. 3) Beginning Acting: A broad-based introduction to techniques and styles of acting, which will include drama games, voice and movement exercises, improvisation and dialogue work.

The courses run for 10 weeks, on Wednesday evenings, starting Jan. 14, 1981. Class sizes are limited. Call for more information 354-2915.

FOR CHILDREN: "Two ways to spell Jaguar," a children's show of sign language, song, dance and mime will be presented at the Boston Children's Museum, Jan. 10, 17, 24, 31. Performed by high school and college interns from the Urban Arts Project in Deafness, the show is a trip through the manual alphabet of songs.

Children are encouraged to participate in the show which takes place on Saturdays at 1 PM and 3:30 PM. Immediately following the early show, there will be a mask-making workshop, "Two Ways to Become a Frog", which shows children how to make animal masks and to sign animal names while communicating with hearing-impaired instructors.

From Match-a-Mom to making a frog mask, from treating frostbite to treating an audience with song and dance, if you have an item that you feel is important for others to know about, write, care of this local newspaper and tell COMING ATTRACTIONS all about it. We'd really like to know.

Don't let them be alone

The woman sits alone. Her small room, on a busy street in Boston, is hidden away in a boarding house...on the fifth floor...and the five flights of stairs are too much for her to tackle more than once a week when she does her shopping. That's the only time she sees other people, other faces...

Like many of Boston's forgotten elderly, this woman has lost contact with the world. Her children, if she had any, have moved to the suburbs or out of state. Most of her friends have already died; the rest, have lost contact with her or else live too far away to visit. Besides, most of them couldn't climb those five flights of stairs anyway. Her "neighbors" in the boarding house don't pay any attention to her; they have other interests and problems of their own.

The holidays are the loneliest time of the year for this lady. Sure, she's lonely the year around, but she's gotten used to that. On the holidays, though, she remembers the many years when she was able to celebrate with her friends and family. She still remembers those days, but she hasn't "been there" for a long, long time.

It is people like this who will be surprised on Christmas Day, when one of the volunteers from the Little Brothers knocks on the door. The first thing they'll see is a smile. Then the bright red poinsettia plant. Then a shopping bag - what's in it?

As the volunteer introduces himself, the new-found friends chat for a few minutes, exchange season's greetings, talk about what he's brought (a festive Christmas dinner), and talk about life itself, its joys and sorrows. It's a nice surprise for an old lady, who thought she was forgotten to the rest of the world. A nice visit, and a nice meal.

How can the Little Brothers visit many of the forgotten elderly this Christmas? They can do it if they get enough volunteers, to help make the visits and deliver the meals. Many volunteers last year helped the Little Brothers visit the elderly on the holiday itself. The volunteers gave an hour, some several hours, to visit one or more of the lonely, isolated people.

Volunteers help carry on the extra work during the holidays when the Little

Brothers reach out to help more people than they can during the year. Holidays are the loneliest time for the elderly, so they try and extend their reach beyond those they normally help with their friendship.

The Little Brothers is a non-denominational, non-profit corporation in the Commonwealth of Massachusetts; it relies solely on individuals for help and support. Its purpose is to befriend the isolated elderly and restore some of the dignity and joy that they deserve.

You can help as a volunteer this Christmas by calling 536-2404. The Little Brothers ask your help in bringing the spirit of Christmas to their old friends.

Free coffee on the Pike

The Massachusetts Turnpike Authority recently announced to motorists that free coffee will be served at restaurants on the turnpike over the New Year's Holiday weekend.

Chairman John T. Driscoll said, "Howard Johnson Company, operators of the restaurants along the 135 mile super highway, would provide free coffee to promote safe driving."

The gesture is intended to remind motorists that rest stops and coffee stops can help keep drivers alert, thereby improving driving performance. All too often motorists in a rush to arrive at their destination become fatigued and a pause along the turnpike will enhance safe travel. Certificates will be distributed at the toll plazas, which will allow motorists to be served coffee without charge from 10:00 P.M. on Wednesday, December 31, 1980, through 7:00 A.M. Thursday, January 1, 1981.

The Turnpike Authority thanks the Howard Johnson Company for their generous contribution toward highway safety.

Ranger Rick says

Put food in right places

The feathered friends on your holiday gift list would like nothing more than to find their favorite foods in your backyard this winter. The secret of attracting wild birds to your feeding stations is to provide the foods they like best and to put them in the right places, says Ranger Rick's Nature Magazine.

Just as some birds would rather eat suet than nuts, many birds prefer to eat on the ground rather than from hanging feeders.

The National Wildlife Federation's monthly publication for children offer these guidelines for providing a variety of wintering birds with the right foods in the right places:

Ground Feeders include blue jays, sparrows, juncos, quail, mourning doves, pheasants, chickadees, and house finches.

Their favorite foods are sunflower seeds, cracked corn (inexpensive, but will also attract starlings, grackles, and pigeons), wild bird seed mix, and peanuts.

Feeders can be split fireplace logs (flatside up), hubcaps (for food or water), garbage can lids, trays, shallow pans, or birdbath tops (for water).

Tabletop or Window Feeders include cardinals, goldfinches, grosbeaks, chickadees, house finches, redpolls, purple finches, mockingbirds, and jays.

Their favorite foods are sunflower seeds, shelled peanuts, wild bird seed mix, raisins, and currants.

Feeders can be trays placed on picnic tables, benches, or stumps, or attached to windowsills.

Hanging or High Post Feeders include cardinals, chickadees, goldfinches or other finches, pine siskins, redpolls, titmice, and nuthatches.

Their favorite foods are niger or thistle seeds, sunflower seeds, wild bird seed mix, and peanut hearts or other nuts.

Feeders can be plastic tube feeders, round or square post feeders (some shaped like little houses), or recycled milk cartons, detergent, or bleach bottles, which have been cut open for easy access.

Trunk Feeders include chickadees, woodpeckers, nuthatches, and many seed-eating birds.

Their favorite foods are suet or suet cakes, which can be mixed with peanut butter, seeds, and other treats.

Feeders can be wire mesh holders, plastic mesh bags (used for onions, oranges, etc.) or log holders.

"Don't be discouraged if the birds don't come flocking into your yard the first day you put out food," advises Ranger Rick.

"Sometimes it takes a while for the birds in your area to discover your feeders. Once they've found them, they'll keep coming back as long as there is food for them."

Feeders should be kept clean and checked every day. Don't put out large amounts of food that could spoil or attract rats or mice. And remember that besides food and water, birds need cover. "most birds seem to feel more comfortable eating at feeders near trees or bushes where they can perch and hide from hawks or neighborhood cats," says Ranger Rick.
